

English Language Fellow Heather Mehrrens, instructor in the University of Maryland, USA, conducted a two-day workshop entitled “Academic Writing and Composition” for Delhi University English teachers on 21 and 22 November, 2016. This workshop was organized by the ILLL in collaboration with the Regional English Language Office (RELO) at the American Embassy. This workshop, designed according to contemporary research on second language acquisition, was offered to discuss effective methods and strategies for writing instruction. Such strategies are especially useful to assist students with a weak academic writing background. Pedagogical tools shared in the workshop could also be used by DU teachers to develop e-Lessons on academic writing for the vle.du.ac.in site of the ILLL.
